

Change Rocks

a poem by Noëla Zaharia

Turn the page and change

If you hate the cage!

Unless it's your book.

This deceitful hook you learned to scroll,

Reading each day

In endless replay.

Can't enjoy a good writers' block?

Spilling like crazy imprinted words around the clock?

Just turn the page,

Be the change maker,

Your own jail-breaker!

Wired to old habits

Your body inhabits,

Take a chance to break free,

Grow up despite gravity!

Read yourself,

Write your own books

However weird this new you looks!

Fall in style, get up from shock

Change is vibe, you make it rock!

